TOWN OF LEDYARD
REGIONAL VNA
HOME HEALTH AIDE

NATURE OF WORK:

Performs duties as a trained competent member of the home health service care team of the Ledyard Regional VNA (Agency) according to Town Standards and the State of Connecticut Department of Health Regulations. Provides selected personal care services and related home management activities to the sick, physically or mentally challenged in their home as part of a plan of care. Position requires initiative, maturity, sound judgment, observation and communication skills, sensitivity to the needs of others, and a neat professional appearance.

SUPERVISION RECEIVED:

The home health aide is supervised by the primary care registered nurse and the Clinical Nurse Supervisor who serves as the supervisor of the health aide program. The home health aide may also be supervised by physical or occupational therapists or speech/language pathologist.

ESSENTIAL FUNCTIONS:

Follows a written plan of care initiated by the primary care nurse or therapist, based on the physician's plan of care.

Using infection control precautions and appropriate protective measures, assists with personal care and activities of daily living such as: bathing, oral care, nail, skin and hair care, simple foot care, dressing, feeding, toileting, measuring and recording intake and output, aiding safe ambulation with use of walker, cane, wheelchair, transferring techniques (in and out of bed, chair, wheelchair, commode), body positioning, and range of motion. Assists patient with a prescribed program of exercises developed and taught by a professional of the health team.

Assists the patient with self-administration of medication ordered by the physician (i.e., bringing medications to the patient or reminding the patient to take the medication but may not measure out dosage or administer medications).

Reads and records temperature, pulse and respiration,

Reports any changes, problems, concerns to the primary care nurse.

Recognizes emergency situations and initiates emergency procedures.

Records observations of the patient on the appropriate form and gives accurate reports of time and activities in the patient's home.

Complies with policies on confidentiality and security of information and records including all Federal and State laws and regulations governing the privacy of a patient's protected health information. The category of access to protected health information is Level 2 (Access to identifiers and clinical information).

Maintains the patient in a safe, comfortable environment; prepares meals and encourages adequate nutrition and fluid intake, shops as necessary, performs light household chores such as bed changing, dusting, vacuuming, washing dishes, laundry or other activities except for financial, that promote smooth management of the home.

Performs certain "extended activities" of care as taught and supervised by the nurse or therapist, i.e., assisting the patient with adaptive or mechanical equipment, simple, non sterile dressings, blood pressure measurements, may be delegated per Home Health Aide Policy.

The home health aide is expected to participate as a member of the health care team in case management conferences and to attend inservice education programs 12 hours per year and to actively participate in the Quality Assurance program and quality improvement activities.
